Stimson Would Deal Vigorously With Aggressors

Urges President Be Given Power For Strong Action In Present Situation

FIRST WITNESS IN NEUTRALITY HEARING

Former Secretary Of War Says Civilization Is Facing Grave Threats

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Henry L. Stimson—secretary of state in the Hoover administration and a member of two Republican cabinets—implored Congress today to empower the President to deal vigorously with the aggressor nations of the world.

Proposals Made

Two major proposals for an American neutrality policy were laid before the Senate foreign relations committee by Stimson. They were:

1. That the President be given authority to name the aggressor in any war so that the United States would lend its moral and economic support to a defensive power.

2. That the President have full power to apply economic pressure against the totalitarian countries in support of the democracies.

Sides With President

Stimson, a professional soldier and diplomat, aligned himself with President Roosevelt in urging a foreign policy which would permit the use of all methods "short of war" to halt the march of the dictators across the face of the earth.

As he offered the first testimony at public hearings on neutrality proposals before Congress, Stimson warned:

"I weigh my words when I say that I believe our present Caucasian civilization is threatened by the gravest danger with which it has been confronted for four centuries."

Stimson bunched Germany, Italy and Japan together as the powers which threaten civilization, declaring that their continued aggression has upset the whole world's conception of treaties, agreements and national promises.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Tuesday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, a sedan parked on East Washington street, near the Alhambra Home, started coming down the street. An automobile proceeding in the opposite direction stopped, the driver got out, rushed over, over to the runaway car, got in, and piloted it into an alley near by. The owner soon appeared to claim his car, and very happy that there had been no accident, Rev. J. Calvin Rose, of the Second U. P. church, proved to be the driver that "saved" the car.

Chicago Mayor Election Shows Big G. O. P. Gain

By PAUL R. ALLERUP
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, April 5.—Conflicting claims were made today by leaders of both major parties as to the national significance of the Chicago election yesterday, in which Mayor Edward J. Kelly, backed by one of the country's strongest city Democratic machines, won re-election over his Republican opponent, Dwight H. Green.

Republicans claimed Green's showing, the strongest of any Republican in Chicago in ten years, assured a sweep of Illinois by the G. O. P. in 1940 and "demonstrated the New Deal nationally."

Democrats, however, asserted the election proved nothing of interest outside Chicago and had no national significance.

Investigation Of N. L. R. B. By Congress Is Looming

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A sweeping investigation of the National Labor Relations Board and operations of the Wagner Labor Act, either by a special house committee or by its labor committee, appeared virtually certain today.

House leaders have informed administration officials that an investigation resolution will be adopted if presented the house by its powerful rules committee.

Sponsors of the proposal for an investigation already had won a clear majority of the rules committee for the resolution of Rep. Anderson (D) of Missouri, to appoint a special 10-man committee, with wide powers to subpoena witnesses.

Yielding to the bitter opposition of the administration, leaders in the drive for the investigation have agreed to drop the Anderson proposal if the house labor committee will agree to hold such board hearings that they will amount to an investigation.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 5.—A casual admission by Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins that he intended shortly to transfer his voting residence from New York to Iowa apparently had started the 1940 presidential campaign off in high gear, so far as the Democrats are concerned.

Knowing that Hopkins is a prime favorite of President Roosevelt's, and is recuperating here from an attack of intestinal flu, Democratic leaders in Washington and elsewhere barge warm springs to

Report Hitler And Mussolini Talk

London Hears Of Parley On Phone

Doubt As To Authenticity Of Report Is Expressed In Some Sources

HITLER MOTORING TO MUNICH AREA

(International News Service)
LONDON, April 5.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Italian Premier Benito Mussolini, in a long telephonic conversation today on the European situation, were said to have agreed on "precautionary military measures" taken by Italy, according to the London Evening Star. The newspaper asserted that the two dictators discussed concerted action in case of "unexpected" developments.

Dispatch from Berlin today indicated that a conversation by telephone between Hitler and Mussolini was almost physically impossible. The German chancellor since last night had not been in a place from which normal telephone communication could be easily arranged.

Hitler after leaving Berlin last night was motoring today in the vicinity of Munich, presumably en route to Berchtesgaden to spend the Easter holidays.

As the British government scanned reports of increased Italian activity in Albania and the Adriatic area, the foreign office today disclaimed official knowledge of rumors of increased participation by Italy and Germany in the affairs of nationalist Spain.

Officials asserted that the foreign office had no information about reports that the British and French ambassadors had protested to Burgo the reported landing of 4,000 new Italian troops on Spanish soil.

The five largest cities in the British Empire in order of their size, are London, England; Calcutta, India; Sydney, New South Wales; Bombay, India; and Montreal, Canada.

HOPKINS PLANS HOME IN IOWA

day for an "inside" estimate of the significance of Hopkins' decision to move back to the state of his birth.

"Heir Apparent?"

General trend of the inquiries ran about as follows: "Is the president seriously promoting Hopkins as his heir apparent in 40, or is the White House inner circle attempting to bedevil and mystify such Democratic party stalwarts as Vice President Garner, Postmaster General Parley and others of their political philosophy?"

Hopkins came south with Mr. Roosevelt and has been his sole house guest thus far during the course of the president's Easter holiday. Information that the commerce secretary was about to set up a permanent home in Grinnell, Iowa, came as a result of newspaper tips from "old friends" in the tall corn state that such was about to happen.

The lanky, youngish cabinet officer, still showing some of the effects of his recent illness, admitted the intention promptly.

As soon as he had shaken off after-effects of the flu a bit more, said Hopkins, he proposed to set up a permanent home in Grinnell—for the sake of his seven-year-old daughter, Diane.

ceived before for the office, and set a record for votes cast in a Chicago election, was:

Kelly 820,517.

Green 637,107.

Mayor Kelly's election came as no surprise, but most observers were amazed at the Republican strength shown. To the impartial observer, there appeared some basis for Republican claims that the election augured success for the party in 1940 in Illinois. In the light of the congressional elections last fall, when overwhelming Democratic strength in Chicago and throughout Cook county nullified G. O. G. gains downstate and kept Illinois in the New Deal column, it appeared that should the Democratic and Republican vote in Chicago be fairly well equalized in next year's presidential election, the G. O. P. would stand an excellent chance of winning the state.

dent Cardenas...ordered immediate expulsion of said foreigners because he considers their permanent residence in the national territory inconvenient.

The constitutional article under which the president acted provides for expulsion of "pernicious foreigners."

Before the order was issued there was an outbreak of violence in which 1,000 Mexican workers attacked the Spanish Casino Calle Isabel La Catolica, smashing every window in the building.

Scores of policemen rushed to the scene, dispersing the mob with tear gas.

Rocks Are Hurlled
The rioting workers carried a red and black flag. During the melee, orators shouted:

"Death of Falangistas; viva Mexico!"

At first the demonstrators tried to force their way inside the Casino. Then, as the crowd swelled, hundreds of rocks were hurled at the building.

Spoken words of the workers denounced Spanish Fascism as a drive by Franco to line up Latin America against the democratic nations.

Police said they expected further demonstrations would occur. One authority remarked:

"There is room for only one flag in Mexico."

Ready To Pass Anti-Macing Bill

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 5.—The James administration anti-macing bill was slated for final passage today in the senate following an unsuccessful two-hour battle by the Democratic minority to amend it.

The bill, which has already passed the house, enacts into law the campaign pledge of Gov. Arthur H. James to ban "macing" in Pennsylvania. Following passage today the bill goes to the governor for his signature.

The bill makes it unlawful for anyone to "demand" a political contribution from a state employee, WPA worker, relief recipient, or anyone having a contractual relation with the state.

To quickly relieve distress—rub soothing, warming Musterole on your chest, throat and back.

Musterole is NOT "just a salve." It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned remedies for distress of colds—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other helpful ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole penetrates the surface skin, stimulates, warms and soothes and quickly helps to relieve local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In 3 strengths: Regular, Children's (Mild) and Extra Strong, 40%.

Kay, general chairman, yesterday afternoon.

"All our plans are developing," Mrs. Kay reported. "We believe this Elks party will be one of the finest ever." She stressed that it is a community affair and that proceeds will go to the GNCA.

County Delays Canal Decision

Delegation Of Railroaders Visits Commissioners During Morning

Meeting with the county commissioners today, a group of railroad men presented their arguments against the proposed Lake Erie-Ohio River canal and asked that the commissioners neither approve the canal by resolution nor send any representative to Washington on April 11 when the Rivers and Harbors committee meets.

In the group were I. L. Harper, general foreman of the B. & O. shops; R. B. Fisher, general car foreman; Ralph Audine, chief clerk and Frank Doyle, chairman of the Erie-Ohio River Shop Crafts of the B. & O.

The railroad men told the county commissioners that a canal through this district would be unfair competition, that it would result in lessened employment among the railroad men, and that it would mean lessened purchasing power for New Castle and Lawrence county.

At the conclusion of the meeting the commissioners announced that they had come to no decision in the matter. On Tuesday they met with proponents of the canal and said they would reach a decision by ten o'clock this morning. The decision will be made later.

MENS GARDEN CLUB HAS DINNER-PARTY

Annual dinner-party for members of the Mens Garden Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Black, East Brook, Tuesday evening. Following a bountiful chicken dinner, served in Black's charming home, officers were elected as follows:

President, Charles G. Lindner; vice president, John Robinson; recording secretary, Leal Baldwin; treasurer, George E. Miles; corresponding secretary, Edward C. Gattall. The above officers and J. W. Anderson, N. R. Casillo and Charles Black will serve as the board of gardeners.

The planting projects committee reported that the work of planting, landscaping and beautifying Rural avenue will probably be started next week. This projected planting is rather extensive and has called for considerable care in the survey and planning, as a large number of trees and shrubs are to be used.

Relieving officers were given a vote of appreciation and John Robinson, retiring president, in response, praised the members for their fine cooperation during the past year and wished the new officers success.

Other reports were given and suggestions for the coming year's activities were made.

CANADA HOLDS BACK

THOSE Americans who feel it would be a disgrace to remain aloof if Europe plunged into war should hearken to Prime Minister MacKenzie King of the Dominion of Canada.

King says Canada will never impose conscription for war service overseas so long as the present government is in power. Canada would not send a great expeditionary force to Europe as it did in the World War. The idea that Canada should risk the lives of its citizens every 20 years in a European war for democracy or to protect small nations is a nightmare to the Prime Minister.

The Canadians are attached to Britain by close official ties. In any ordinary situation Canadian participation with Britain in a European war would be taken for granted. Britain in a war now could count on Canadian supplies and volunteers. But Canada would not go to the limit of conscription.

If a British dependency on this side of the Atlantic feels that way about it, why should any citizen of the United States tear his shirt over the intricacies of the European situation, which precious few people over here understand anyhow? The position of Canada should give a lot of jingoists over here a more temperate viewpoint.

RECOGNITION OF FRANCO

Recognition by the United States of the Franco regime in Spain is a natural and logical measure. The Nationalists rule all Spain today. Loyalist resistance has ended, the war is over and General Franco has embarked on the giant task of reconstruction. For this nation to delay recognition of the Spanish government could serve no good purpose.

The major European democracies, France and England, lost no time in recognizing Burgos after the fall of Barcelona heralded the collapse of the Loyalist cause. During the period since, while the latter bitter struggle at Madrid was in progress, the United States deferred action. But with all Loyalist opposition ended, and the Spanish embassy in Washington vacated by the former Loyalist representative, there exists no reason to withhold either recognition or the lifting of the embargo on war materials.

The Spanish people turn now to unification and rehabilitation. General Franco is in a strong position, it is reasonable to believe, to rebuild Spain.

What course the nation's foreign policy takes in the crucial months ahead is naturally of vital interest to this and other democracies. Having established diplomatic relations with the Spanish government at Burgos, the United States will be in better position to observe the course of events.

APPLYING THE WHITEWASH BRUSH TO TVA

Although the majority of the congressional investigating committee evidently desired to vindicate the TVA completely from the charges brought against it, the tricky bookkeeping methods disclosed by the testimony could not be ignored. So the budgeting and accounting system, now said to have been reformed, gets a gentle slap on the wrist.

As for the general verdict of the majority, it gleams with something that strongly resembles whitewash. Before the inquiry was threatened the way TVA kept its books was "extremely unsatisfactory." But that has been changed and the majority finds that the administering of some hundreds of millions of the taxpayers' money has been "on the whole economical and efficient." The program, incidentally, contemplates an ultimate total investment, or expenditure, of half a billion dollars.

The main question for the committee to determine was whether "the electric rates of the Authority provide a legitimate, honest yardstick of equitable rates of private industry."

Inevitably the quarrel of former Chairman Morgan with his two brother directors, which led to his ousting, came in for consideration, since it was this dispute and his serious charges against his colleagues that precipitated the inquiry. And just as inevitably the majority finds that although Chairman Morgan was responsible for some excellent engineering work he was a trouble-maker, and dismisses his accusations forthwith.

So the majority, as expected, decides that TVA provides a "fair yardstick" in the face of evidence that TVA books have shown different figures for power revenues than those submitted to congress in its reports.

Asserting that the word "yardstick" should be stricken from the TVA vocabulary, the minority report finds it "misleading, deceptive, unfair and dishonest" as a measure of rates charged by private industries deprived of the subsidies and other advantages enjoyed by TVA.

There is certainly plenty of evidence to that effect. Whether or not TVA will ever pay for itself, as the majority claims, the policy of subsidizing federal and municipal projects that duplicate existing privately owned facilities is poor business. The remedy for unfair charges is adequate regulation, not driving legitimate enterprises to the wall.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

What Noted People Say

BALTIMORE—Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution, defines the fundamental for economic progress:

"There must be constantly increasing efficiency in production on the part of both labor and capital."

WASHINGTON—Senator Burton Wheeler explains why the president can have a third term nomination if he so desires or exercise a great voice in picking another nominee: "Mr. Roosevelt's popularity in this country is so great that without his support or endorsement, no Democratic nominee can win."

CHICAGO—Dr. Francis E. Townsend claims the old age pensions fight has been won:

"We have enough votes in all parts of the country to assure old age pensions on our plan. All we have to do now is exert our strength in an election."

SAN FRANCISCO—Dr. Jesse F. Williams, Columbia university savant, points out pitfalls leading to dictatorship:

"All that any future holds for any state lies in its youth. The hunger for life may lead youth to accept the leadership of him who promises satisfaction for them."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DEPENDS TOO MUCH ON MOTHER

A MOTHER writes from Canada: "Dear Dr. Myers: We have a girl three years old. I have taken her to Sunday school about eight times, stayed with her, I mean, and I think now she should stay without me. But yesterday she cried so hard the teacher had to send her home. How can I make her become independent of me? She won't go to parties either."

My reply: Better not take her to Sunday school again until you have her emotionally weaned from you at home. Go away often, leaving her with Dad and later with some other reliable person, so she can feel comfortable when not in your presence. Go also with her to other homes where there are young children, and later leave her for a few hours at such a home occasionally, in case the mother is willing. Attract other children her age to your home, one or a few at a time. But don't count on parties. Formal parties for young children have little or no educational value. They nearly always make the timid child more timid. When she goes back to Sunday school, have some other adult take her. Also induce one or two other little children of her class to come to your house to go along with her.

Don't Drive Them "Writes a Massachusetts mother: "My two boys, aged 13 and 14 years, who have been brought up to attend Sunday school, now just hate to go. Every Sunday morning there is a siege to get them up and off by 9:30, and they have to be taken as they won't walk. They say they don't learn anything, dislike their teacher and just hate everything about it."

"I have tried in vain to persuade them to go to a different church school. . . . They are Scouts and attend meetings sponsored by the church. . . . My husband as a youth went to church and young people's meetings but says he was 'fed up on it.' So now seldom goes near a church. . . . They spend most of their spare time in their workshop with their father. One makes lovely boat models and the other experiments with electrical gadgets. . . ."

My Answer: If you could influence Dad to go with these boys to Sunday school, they might not raise much objection to going. But unless or until you go so with Dad, you had better quit driving them, for there will come a time anyway when you cannot. Perhaps Dad and the boys would agree to go with you to church as a family together, say once every other week. It might be a great victory for you and final gain for all if you could arrange such an occasion even once each month. That would be definite and I believe Dad and the boys hardly could have the heart to turn you down on such a proposition. Let them pick out the church part of the time. Then the program might prove so satisfactory to all that these male members of your family would choose eventually to go regularly with you to church.

Father and mothers who both believe in the value of religious education for their children don't send their children to Sunday school and church; they go with these children. When the whole family goes every Sunday together, there is likely to be little or no resistance.

GRANDPAS

The braggarts of the town are they And yet the jolliest of men. What if their hair is turning gray? Grandpas are youngsters born again.

Time was behind their backs I grinned. Old fossils, ready for the shelf. The grandpas, getting short of wind. But now I'm one of them myself.

Who calls us old? Some upstart youth Who treads that dreadful middle age. And nothing's farther from the truth!

At forty dullness holds the stage. At fifty bridge and books are all. That life provides for sage or clown. But countless pleasures, great and small. Delight the grandpas of the town.

We grandpas to the circus go! We visit sand piles and the zoo. The corner candy shops we know. The doll and toy departments, too.

At fair time who are always found Holding some child in fond embrace Upon the jolting merry-go-round? Who but the grandpas of the place.

Who march away to horn and drum? Who but grandpas, if you please. Who have their pockets searched for gum. By youngsters climbing on their knees?

About the temples we are gray But after all is said and done. In spite of what the scoffers say We grandpas have a lot of fun. (Protected by The George Matthews Adams Service)

We often notice automobiles parked in the middle of a busy street when there is plenty of room along the curb for the cars. This is done to escape paying the nickel. The penalty for this should be about ten dollars.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY "What's the matter here?" asked the policeman of a battered looking man lying on the sidewalk outside the apartment house.

"Oh, just absent-mindedness," was the reply. "What are you talking about?" the officer inquired further.

"Well, you see I live on the second floor of this building. My wife and I are both very absent-minded. I just came home from a long business trip, and my wife and I were at the dinner table when a step sounded in the hall and someone tried the door. Well, my wife is so absent-minded that she said 'Goodness, here comes my husband' and I'm so absent-minded that I jumped out the window."

When we are in the south there is always one place we visit, and that is St. Cloud, Fla. We have a lot of friends there. Among them is Bert Yoho of this city. He has a fine lot of tropical fruit and when he is not at home we generally steal what we want. This year he was at home. He gave us a lemon as big as a coconut and a lot of oranges, loquats, mulberries, etc. He has a nice place and we always like to visit it.

Murderers cost the taxpayers a lot of money, even if they are executed when convicted. We have known murder trials to cost a county $20,000 where the murdered was executed and some of his pals sent up for life, which means much more. Murderers get a lot of privilege they are not entitled to.

Federal Incomes And Taxation
Tax On Bonds Is Next In Order
Example Of Senator Cousins Cited

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Until very lately recipients of governmental salaries have not had to pay any income tax on them. Finally, however, Congress decreed that these stipends are taxable, exactly like ordinary incomes. Our legislators' decision was fought on the ground that it was unconstitutional. The other day the federal Supreme Court upheld Congress—governmental hirings do have to pay income taxes, same as anyone else. This matter having been settled the question arises: How about taxes upon incomes derived from interest upon federal state and still more local governmental bonds, now classed as wholly or partially tax-exempt? The fight won't end at the current session on Capitol Hill, but it will wax pretty hot, and is bound to continue until one side or the other is knocked out. It's a corkingly important dispute, too. It involves the interest upon more than 50 billions of Uncle Sam's securities and those of lesser governmental units. It also has a vital bearing upon business in general. Its outcome may spell the difference between good and bad times.

It might seem as if Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, whose job it is to popularize the sale of government bonds by making them as taxless as possible, should oppose sticking them with an income impost. He favors it instead. So have all treasury secretaries before him, since we have had an income tax. Such expert chape see that the present system is an economic handicap.

The Coupons Case One of the largest holders of income-tax-exempt securities we ever had was the late Senator James Couzens of Michigan. Senator Couzens cashed in about 20 millions on his Ford auto holdings and put it into tax-exempt federal bonds. Yet he always held that tax exemption was a crime. Senator William E. Borah thought so likewise (and does yet, no doubt), but he persistently insisted that it was constitutional. He regularly asked how Senator Couzens could oppose abrogation of exemption and yet invest in tax exempt securities. To which Senator Couzens' reply invariably was that he bowed to a higher constitutional authority—Senator Borah. He said he didn't believe in exemption, but that the Idaho senator knew best, of course.

Senator Borah's as recalcitrant as ever. Not that he believes in exemption but he believes in its constitutionality. And Senator Couzens is dead.

The Supreme Court still is in the background. This is the difficulty:

Although interest on government bonds is less than interest on private companies' bonds, the interest on private bonds, minus income tax, is less than the untaxed interest on government bonds.

Consequently conservative investors prefer government stuff (which is largely static to industrial issues which stir up business).

There's an additional consideration. Making out income tax returns is a great nuisance.

Direct And Indirect I believe in making taxes as disagreeable as possible. It makes folks hostile to 'em. Being tax-conscious that they're being taxed to have it rubbed in.

Indirect excises aren't noticed. To me called to submit a "return" by such-and-such a date, or heaven help you, under a jail penalty, is enough to make anybody sore.

I'd rather have my 75 cents immune to any investigation whatever. It makes for lower taxes, if they make everybody mad.

Visible taxes are what are irritating. And if there's any more visible tax than an income tax, I don't know what it is.

IN recent weeks there has been almost desperation among them finding a candidate behind whom "our forces can make the fight."

Most of them now accept the fact that the third-term idea, always feeble, has faded out of the picture. The trouble is that the men whom they have tried to build up have faded, too—the most recent example being the heroic Mr. Hopkins, whose great "business-appeasement" drive has become a sorry national joke. In this situation, the splendid press which Mr. Douglas had when named as justice so surprised and pleased these White House strategists that the idea that something could be done with him for 1940 was conceived.

CERTAINLY, in newspapers and magazines, the Douglas life was written up somewhat repetitiously as the "Great American Success Story" and the poor-boy ballyhoo was extravagantly exaggerated.

At once he became a national figure and almost at once inspired journalistic reflectors of "inner circle" thought began to discuss the "justice designate" (which seems to be the current phrase) as a presidential candidate and to predict that "more will be heard about him."

THE TRUTH of course is that the whole business is silly. Even if Mr. Douglas does come in the campaign, and were willing to run, it ought to be clear that the people behind him would be unable to deliver enough delegates in a convention to make a respectable showing. But, even if they could nominate him and even if Mr. Douglas' feeling about the court did not preclude him from running, he would have to be very foolish, indeed, to relinquish his seat.

Others want a taxi called with an extra taxi operator to take both him and his car home at the cost of two fares.

New Air Armada By United States Second To None

Roosevelt Signs Air Expansion Bill; Secretly Working On New PlansPlan 400-Mile-An-Hour Force With Hard-Hitting Bombing PlanesBy ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff
CorrespondentWASHINGTON, April 5.—Secret plans for construction of a 400-mile-an-hour air force—the speediest, hardest-hitting air armada in the world—were revealed by the war department as President Roosevelt had signed the new air expansion bill.Acting Secretary of War Louis Johnson ordered the air corps procurement program thrown into high gear to give the army a fleet of 6,000 fighting planes provided in the army bill within the next 24 months.
"The expenditure of the entire amount authorized ($300,000,000) will make possible the increase of strength of the army air corps to be between 5,500 and 6,000 airplanes by July 1, 1941. Some 3,000 aircraft are to be contracted for, constructed, tested, accepted, delivered and put into operation in air corps tactical squadrons or assigned to reserve within a period of two years.Working On Plans Johnson revealed that the war department since last November has been working on plans to be put into effect immediately after action by congress on the army bill. So there would be no time lag in getting the new program of air defense under way.The program, when completed, air corps officials said, will give the United States a defensive air force superior to air armadas any aggressor nation or a combination of aggressors could send against the United States.Johnson revealed that the army has decided upon five basic types of fighting aircraft to be thrown into mass production at the earliest possible moment.The pursuit ships, one of the five classes, were expected to do approximately 400 miles an hour. The bombers will exceed 300 miles an hour. Both types are considered the equal or superior of the fighting planes of any major power.Build Five Types
The immediate program calls for building of an initial 550 of the five types. As soon as the initial order is well under way and the types are proved they are expected to be placed in mass production."The program," Johnson said,
"will permit the purchase by the war department of the best types of aircraft now in existence.""The contracts now about to be signed will call for production of combat airplanes of the most advanced types. The five types of tactical aircraft to be purchased with the $300,000,000 made immediately available are four-engine bombers, single-engine pursuit airplanes, pursuit interceptors, attack bombers and a small number of photographic airplanes."

Tent Caterpillar Menace To Trees

Department Of Agriculture Suggests Methods Of Curbing Destructive Pest

OUTBREAKS OCCUR EVERY FEW YEARS

HARRISBURG, April 5.—A campaign this spring for the control of the apple tree tent caterpillar is suggested by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

These caterpillars at times become numerous enough to completely defoliate shade and orchard trees. Destructive outbreaks occur for a period of three to four years followed by a longer period in which they are not present in any great numbers. In the counties surrounding Clarion county, it is likely that there will be quite a number of caterpillars this coming year, but they probably will not be nearly as bad as 1938.

The apple tree tent caterpillar is held in check by a long list of natural enemies. These enemies account for the year in which the insect is rarely noticed. A reduction of the tent caterpillar results in a reduction of natural enemies. This condition in turn gives the tent caterpillar a chance to increase until again checked by an increase of natural enemies.

In orchards which are well sprayed with arsenate of lead for the control of codling moth and curculio, tent caterpillars are rarely troublesome. On trees which are not regularly sprayed, a careful watch should be kept for the egg masses. These should be removed and burned. The nests are easily destroyed by wiping out with the hands. This should be done when the caterpillars are in the nest, which is usually on cool wet days. Burning out the nest may result in much damage to the tree, hence is not recommended. Wild cherry is a favorite food plant and when growing as a weed should be cut down since such trees serve as centers of infestation. To protect trees with spray one to one-half pounds of arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of water may be used. Or a dust composed of fifteen pounds of arsenate of lead and eighty-five pounds of hydrated lime may be used. These should be used as soon as the tents are noticed.

Watching For Auto Violators

Additional Warning Signs To Be Placed In Harlansburg

State motor police on duty in Lawrence county stated today they are watching for violators of stop signs, especially at the junction of Routes 19 and 108, at Harlansburg, one of the most dangerous crossings in the state. Additional warning signs are to be placed today, the state announced.

Second Baptist Service Tonight

Pre-Easter services will be conducted at the Second Baptist church beginning tonight with the Lord's Supper, a sermonette by the pastor, Rev. U. S. Munnerlyn and music by the senior choir. The three nights of Jesus' last suffering and his death will be commemorated in impressive services.

Thursday night the subject will be "His Agony in the Garden". Music will be provided by the junior choir. There will also be a sermon. Friday night the subject will be "The Crucifixion and Burial of Christ", this service to climax His work and suffering on earth. The sermon will be by the pastor, music by the senior choir. The resurrection will be appropriately celebrated Sunday morning.

There's a persistent story that the real Hitler was killed long ago. If it's true, those who did it must often wish they had the old one back.

FEELS BETTER IN EVERY WAY SINCE TAKING "VENDOL"

Retired New Brighton contractor says he suffered daily from biliousness, tired out feeling, pains in back, arms, legs, all on account of constipation.

"Before I began taking Vendol a few weeks ago, I felt wretched, but I have this wonderful medicine to thank for my relief, and now I'm like a different person," states Mr. George Beyers, who lives at 345 Thirteenth ave., New Brighton, Pa. He was giving his experience to the Vendol Man in Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug recently.

"I had been troubled with constipation for several years and this condition caused me to suffer with severe bilious attacks almost daily. My tongue was heavily coated and there was a bitter taste in my mouth all the time.

"My appetite was changeable—sometimes I'd be real hungry, then again I didn't want anything to eat, but it always seemed that when I would have a bilious feeling, that is when my stomach would feel terribly bloated, with a full, heavy feeling.

"I suffered a lot with pains in the muscles of my back, arms and legs, which were often so bad they prevented my getting restful sleep, and every morning I'd get up feeling tired and sluggish, just hated to start the day.

"Vendol was recommended to me by my friend Mr. S. S. Allen of 1101 Sixth ave., Beaver Falls, so I bought a bottle and this was surely a wise thing to do. First of all Vendol and the little laxative tablets gave me the most completely satisfying relief from constipation. Then I noticed there were no more bilious attacks or heavy feeling in my stomach. The coating on my tongue and bitter taste in my mouth has completely disappeared, the pains in my muscles are gradually leaving and I get wonderful relaxed sleep every night. I don't feel tired and worn out as I used to, and truly feel better in every way since taking this great medicine.

Why not visit the Vendol Man in Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug Store and learn what you may expect Vendol to do for you? You can get Vendol at leading drug stores everywhere.

SCARLET FEVER CALLS FOR STRICT ISOLATION

Some of you readers will no doubt remember the days when the attitude toward children and scarlet fever was "the sooner they get it and get it over with, the better".

This school of thought has died out. It always reminded me of the farmer who had a little colt that got tangled up in a barbed-wire fence and was badly hurt. The farmer's reaction was much the same: "He had to find out what barbed wire is sometime".

I have never subscribed to the "let him get it and get it over with" idea, for I have always felt that the older a child is, and the more his resistance is built up, the better he comes through an illness like scarlet fever. In fact, I think the fact that the old idea is dying out is partly responsible for the decline in the death rate among children.

A child unfortunate enough to contract scarlet fever should be isolated at once. He must be given very careful nursing and no one but the nurse and his doctor should be allowed near him during the three stages of the infection. The disease is so infectious that every precaution must be taken to confine it to one room, or one part of the house. If you aren't careful, it will spread.

The person who is doing the nursing should wear a mask and gown when in contact with the patient.

Just remember that although you may not be in any danger of contracting the disease, you can carry the germs out of the sickroom and pass them on to someone else. As a doctor, I have always had a horror of carrying germs out of a sick room and passing them to anyone else.

During the approximate four weeks of quarantine, it will require every precaution to keep the disease from spreading. Books and papers in the sick-room should be burned. If possible, children who contract scarlet fever should be taken to a hospital. When you have them there, you are in a position to handle the complications that so frequently arise from the disease.

Yes, the hospital is the ideal place to have your patient. But unfortunately we can't all have that convenience. In my practice, hospitalization has often been out of the question. All we country doctors can do is warn parents of the dangers not only of complications, but of infection to others. If any other children have been exposed to the infection, it is wise to isolate them for a period of about a week. The incubation period—the time between contact with the infection and the development of the sore throat and the rash—is about five or six days, rarely longer.

We know now that one of the ways scarlet fever is spread is through infected milk. That is one of the reasons why I am so strong for pasteurization of this destroys any such bacteria that may have gotten into the milk. There has been a steady decrease in the number of people who contract this disease. The fall in the number of deaths from it is even more noticeable. In another column I will discuss the discoveries that have made this possible.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

There is only one treatment for tuberculosis.

Rest, spelled R E S T.

It must be a complete rest, too. It must be rest in body, mind and lung.

Rest for the body calls for bed rest and fresh, clean air.

Also a diet rich in vitamins and cod liver oil.

Rest for the mind is best obtained in a quiet seclusion.

There may be emotional disturbances at home.

The lung is put to rest by the process of collapsing it.

This may be done by one of two simple surgical procedures.

Or, in advanced, stubborn cases, by removal of certain ribs.

Primarily, tuberculosis treatment calls for rest.

Name Committee To Investigate W. P. A.

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 5—A twelve-man committee to investigate the WPA—first inquiry into the federal relief system since it was launched on a huge scale six years ago—was named Tuesday by Chairman Taylor (D) Colorado, of the house appropriations committee.

Chairman Taylor said that his selection of members for the investigating committee was assurance to the nation that the WPA inquiry would not be a "whitewash".

At the same time, he assigned the handling of the investigation to Rep. Clifton Woodrum, the Virginia Democrat who has engineered the slashes in WPA appropriations this year.

Taylor said that he himself would be the nominal chairman of the committee, but that he would act in a "supervisory" capacity, leaving the actual conduct of the inquiry to Woodrum.

To Hire Counsel

Special investigators and a counsel probably will be hired as soon as the committee receives a special appropriation of $25,000 which it has sought, Taylor asserted. He added the committee would meet again Thursday to discuss procedure.

Asked if the investigation would be completed before WPA's regular appropriation comes up for consideration, Chairman Taylor replied: "Of course the resolution adopted by the house only requires a report during the life of this congress more to run. However, we probably will bring in a preliminary report this session."

Members of the committee in addition to Taylor and Woodrum were: Reps. Cannon, Missouri; Ludlow, Indiana; McMillan, South Carolina; Snyder, Pennsylvania; O'Neal, Kentucky; and Johnson, West Virginia. Democrats: Taber, New York; Wigglesworth, Massachusetts; Lambertson, Kansas and Ditter, Pennsylvania, Republicans.

The members compose the same subcommittee of the appropriations committee which handles all WPA appropriations.

Move Aimed At More Drastic Liquor Control Laws In State

Would Outlaw 'One-Man Clubs'

License Fees Would Be Boosted Twenty Per Cent; Boards Projected

APPLICANTS WOULD HAVE TO GIVE NOTICE

By GEORGE I. FISHER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 5.—Proposing drastic and far-reaching revision of the state's liquor control laws, the James administration moved to clamp down generally on retail and club dispensers.

Broader, more stringent restrictions to be enforced through establishment of county boards, were included in the bills drafted by a joint legislative committee with the sanction of the administration.

Changes Proposed
Briefly, changes proposed in the liquor laws included:

1. Licenses for the exclusive sale of beer would be eliminated. At present there are approximately 4,000 of these licenses now in force. In the future all licenses would be required to obtain a permit to allow the sale of both beer and liquor.

2. District boards would be established to hear citations and to pass on applications for licenses. Boards would be empowered to reject or approve such applications.

3. Outlawing of "one-man" clubs through insertion of a provision that club licenses must require a majority of members with voting privilege.

4. Each licensee would be required to advertise his application once a week for two weeks in a newspaper of general circulation.

Boost License Fees
5. License fees would be boosted 20 per cent, the additional cost to pay expenses of district boards. Fees which now range from $150 to $600 yearly, under the proposed revision would be from $180 to $720. Club licenses would be increased to $250 from $50, and clubs would be required to close at 2 a. m. instead of 3 a. m.

6. Penalties for sales to minors increased.

creased. When minor is between 20 and 21 penalty would be 10 days or $50 and when under 17, revocation of license and fine of $300.

7. For the first time, license money in part would be set aside for local law enforcement.

8. Lengthening of the distance from 300 to 400 feet of a school or church, excepting a hotel of more than 40 rooms, for retail liquor sites. Where entertainment is offered, the licensee would be required to have at least 1,000 square feet of space.

One board member would be paid a salary ranging from $2,000 to $3,600 dependent on the population of the district, and two others would receive $15 a day while sitting. Dodge City, Kansas, turns the hands of the clock back 60 years to celebrate the "sad, bad, glad, mad" days when Dodge was the end of the Chisholm Trail leading up from Texas. The special leading up was the first showing of a motion picture in "technicolor" made by Warner Bros., a film which revives realistically and reasonably authentically these colorful, rowdy days when Dodge was the most rip-roaring community west of the Mississippi — and that was taking in a lot of territory.

The movies are performing a most useful service with these biographies of communities so typical and expressive of the virile violent old west now gone forever. All these recent films which have had for their central theme the great surge westward of adventurers and home-hunters, and man's savage battle with nature and the red man — "Stagecoach," "Stand Up and Fight," "Dodge City," to name only a few of many — and not forgetting, "The Covered Wagon" and "The Iron Horse" of the silent picture days should be priceless memorabilia for the education of young America half a century from now.

It was the good fortune of this writer, as a very young man, to enjoy the friendship (if I may claim so much) of one of the fearless, steel-nerved peace officers who tamed the killers and bad men of Dodge in those red years when they said of it:

"West of Chicago there is no law. West of Dodge, no God."

That was a pardonable exaggeration. There was law in Dodge City and similar communities, but only such as was made and enforced at the point of a gun by such men as William Barclay Masterson, to whom I refer: Wild Bill Hickok, Wyatt Earp, Bill Tilgman and Dave Matthews.

Almost without exception these gunfighting peace officers were gentle-spoken men — of mild voice and behavior, but holy terrors when in action. In the old days the term "gunman" was used as it is at present. It signifies a fellow usually on the wrong side of the law — an outlaw or a hired killer. "Gunfighter" was ordinarily used to describe a sheriff, city marshal or other peace officer. Wild Bill Hickok, Wyatt Earp, Bat Masterson were gunfighters. Billy the Kid, Ben Thompson and John Wesley Hardin and others of their ilk were gunmen-killers.

The gunmen and gunfighters of the old West almost to a man preferred the single-action to the double-action six-shooters. Billy the Kid was a notable exception. He not only used double-action pistols but preferred a 38-caliber to the heavier 44-caliber Colt most of his contemporaries used. Billy's accuracy made up for his loss of shocking power carried in his smaller slugs.

Some of the oldtimer gunfighters became so proficient in the use of their six-shooters that they could get five shots away from their gun so rapidly that one report could scarcely be distinguished from the next. Usually, however, they did this kind of trick shooting for exhibition purposes. In actual combat they seldom needed more than one shot. If they didn't hit the mark with their first bullet they didn't have a chance to use a second. The other fellow had them by that time unless they were lucky.

Aim was more instinct than marksmanship in the days of the wild and woolly West. Like pointing your finger at an object. In the old days it would have been fatal to take aim. The other fellow would have you by that time. So the gunmen and gunfighters practiced "snap" shooting by the hour, burning up hundreds of dollars worth of ammunition to perfect the skill that determined whether a gun-slinger lived or died.

A lot of nonsense has been written of "two-gun" men blazing away simultaneously with both pistols. And, although most of the gunmen and gunfighters of the old West carried a six-shooter on either hip, they never blasted away with both weapons simultaneously. They carried two weapons simply so they'd have ten shots ready to go instead of five.

Wild Bill Hickok was the master of all gunfighters with the six-shooter. Bill was phenomenally fast on the draw and his marksmanship was beyond belief. Though he was shot in the back of the head when he came to his end in Deadwood, S. D., he had time to get both six-shooters out of his holster in the fraction of a second between the moment of the bullet's impact and the moment it crashed through his brain.

Bat Masterson, almost Hickok's peer with a pistol, died in bed here in New York, many years after his peace-officer experiences in Dodge and other wild towns of the cattle country. Bill Tilgman served more than 50 years as a peace officer along the entire frontier and had hundreds of battles with bad men and outlaws or just "plain ornery cusses" trying to get a reputation by killing a famous deputy United States marshal. He was finally killed in 1924 by a man he was trying to arrest.

One of the few others who lived out the natural span of life was Wyatt Earp of the famous Earp brothers and Tombstone days.

Dodge City of the present day is a singularly appropriate locale for a film of the old West. It was a distillation in one spot of most of the varied violence of the old West. It was the birthplace of the "red light" district. It boasted the first "Boot Hill" cemetery and in the early 1870's the first bathtub between Kansas City and Denver. They raced dogs there 60 years ago. The only woman buried in Boot Hill cemetery was Dora Hand, a former opera singer from the East, who has gone down the scale to become a human derelict. She was murdered by a jealous suitor and was given a Christian burial. Most burials in Boot Hill were made without benefit of coffins on account of the high price of lumber. A strip of muslin or other cloth usually substituted for the more conventional coffin.

More than 7,000,000 Texas long-horn cattle were shipped out of Dodge during its boom days. The town was also the shipping point of countless millions of buffalo hides but, strangely enough, when Warners wanted to buy hides for its picture, the studio had to go to New York for them. Not one could be found in Dodge City, which today is a thriving agricultural center of 10,000 population.

Plan To Assign City Lots Soon

Frank T. Nugent States Application For Garden Area Should Be Made Now

As has been the custom in previous years, the plots in the vicinity of the city disposal plant will be marked off and assigned to persons who desire to garden them, within a short time.

According to Frank T. Nugent, superintendent of the disposal plant, who has been placed in charge of the garden plots by city council, application for the land should be made to him as soon as possible.

Just as soon as the weather breaks these plots will be assigned to the various gardeners. Nugent stated today that there are now about 70 good sized strips of land, belonging to the city, that will be assigned in the near future.

Any person who is granted the use of a portion of this land, must sign an agreement whereby he will clean up his garden at the close of the season and leave the ground as he found it.

If anyone violates this agreement, he is not given ground the following year.

Wicht Welcomes Assembly Probe In PIAA Activity

Rotund Secretary Says "PIAA Has Served Interscholastic Athletics 25 Years"

WILL COOPERATE WITH INVESTIGATION

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, April 5.—Edmund Wicht, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, said Tuesday he would "comply promptly" in any investigation of the association that might be undertaken by the general assembly.

Rep. Eckley Hoyt, Berwick Republican, last night asked appointment of a joint legislative investigating committee to probe charges of "commercialism" and "arrogance" attributed to Wicht.

Wicht said that all records and correspondence pertaining to the association "have, and are, and always will be available" to the 850 member schools "at any time."

Served 25 Years For 25 years, declared Wicht, "the association has rendered a distinct service to the cause of interscholastic athletics with the full knowledge of the member schools that elect their own executive bodies and adopt their own rules by a majority vote of the leading schools."

"Needless to say, therefore, that we shall comply with any request and supply all information concerning the administration of the association which such as committee as proposed in the resolution (Hoyt's) might desire."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

William C. Evans, president of the W. P. I. A. L. and C. L. Walsh, athletic supervisor for Pittsburgh high schools, today condemned a legislative proposal to investigate the state scholastic athletic situation, as requested by Representative Eckley Hoyt, Berwick Republican. Officials of the Pennsylvania I. A. A. put Berwick out of the semifinal round of the state basketball championship after refusing the school principal a postponement because the latter claimed Berwick players needed a rest from games they had played. Williamsport was substituted and eventually Homestead won the title.

It appears as though Sammy Crocetti, who was taught boxing by Jimmie Dime here, is in hot water at Jacksonville; likewise Jackie Carter of Pittsburgh. They fought five of 15 scheduled rounds when the bout was called a "no contest." Matchmaker Ray Bronson said Referee Dick Gore halted the battle because Gore felt the boxers were not trying and were not displaying the brand of boxing he considered them capable of displaying. The battlers protested and said they were doing the best they could. The matchmaker said the fighters would receive no more than their expenses.

Mike Jacobs announced in New York today the Lou Nova-Max Baer battle will be held in the Yankee stadium, New York, May 25. It had been originally carded for Madison Square ball, New York.

Bill Cozart of Durham, N. C., Tuesday at Pinehurst turned in a 35-39-74 and won the medal in the North and South amateur golf championship. Match play will get under way today.

A. B. C., Cleveland, leaders today: All-events, Murray Fowler, Steubenville, 1973; doubles, Murray Fowler and Phil Icous, Steubenville, 1405.

Schweinsberg 84, McKee 93, Reamer 65, Wright 66, Cover 65, Gray 72, Crammer 73, Kilbreath 88, Mackie 91. Charles Phipps is the range officer of the club.

Three Irish Lads To Fight Monday

McCoy, O'Day And Regan Recall Days Of Golden Era Here

SWATVIK MATCHED TO BOX CHAMBERS

Remember the days of the Golden Era, when fighters, good, others not so good but generally mostly good, swat each other for purses some times bringing as much as $1,250 plus expenses to each of the warriors in the grand finale? Those were the days when it wasn't quite so difficult to find an Irish-American, willing to do battle, using gloves as shillalahs. And among the higher priced battlers who participated here was Johnny McCoy, somewhat aged, bald-pated and battle-scarred, yet a fighter every covey.

He fought Willie Davies on November 10, 1929. That was the night Wee Willie's handlers allowed him to enter the ring "sporting" a pair of never-before-used shoes. He skidded here and there then became exasperated, removed his shoes and fought in hosiery feet. Following the scrap Jim Purdy of Erie, who had been a second for McCoy, helped to pick the resin from the soles of the Welshman's feet.

Arkett versus McCoy All of which brings to the fore that when the Jefferson A. C. stages the next amateur boxing show here, which is Monday night, the fans will see three Irish-American fighters in action. Two of them are coming from Youngstown and the other from Butler. If they possess any portion of the fistability displayed by Johnny McCoy, who was quite a brawler in his early days, fans will have spent some exciting moments in The Arena.

One of the boys who will say "howdy" for the first time is Mickie McCoy of Youngstown. He is a lightweight. Mickie is destined to exchange punches with rough-and-ready Chuck Arkett, who beat Joey Simms last week. The Irish-American who will take on Babe Retardo is Mickie O'Day, 112 pounder of Youngstown, and the third descendant of Old Erin who will battle is Larry Regan of Butler. He will oppose Johnny Kovach of Youngstown, at 160 pounds.

Moran Battles Stovich The foregoing named scrappers are in training as are others who will box Monday. Mickie Rubin, who has been up and down, however mostly up, will tackle a Portuguese, one Manny Amado, now a resident of Youngstown. Rubin is a wild-swinging, hard-hitting, game-to-the-backbone lightweight. He has forced more than one opponent to caress the floor and Mickie, himself, also has been skidded, and nosedived upon the canvas.

Putting everything in one, it can be said of Mickie that he is the most thrill-raising fighter yet to appear in The Arena and fans can bet a dollar to a doughnut that when he starts, either Amado or he will keep fans cheering. Frankie Moran, a Roumanian-American, one of the few in the ring, who has been boxing nicely and hitting better recently as his win over the clever, and good, Condella proves. He will take on Frankie Stovich of Youngstown.

Reale To Drop Plow Billy Reale of Princeton will drop the plow-handle long enough to journey to the city to show some "stars" to Tommy Pipher of Youngstown. If Reale's eye for distance is good, Pipher will have a rough fisty voyage. Hal Brooks, whom the writer discovered as a dancer and inveigled into becoming a fighter, is anxious to trade swings and what-have-you with Harold Patterson at 147 pounds. Brooks' up-and-at-'em style has gone over big here.

But the fight of all fights Monday should be staged by Buck Chambers and Chuck Swatvik, Lawrence county middleweights, both of whom yearn to own the county title. They love each other as much as do two prima donnas.

Mickie Solomon, middleweight who fought many of the county's best 160-pounders, and Johnny Banko, the lightweight, who prior to an operation, laid fies upon the broad of their backs, train Swatvik and Chambers, respectively.

Overnight Sports (International News Service) A victory over Lou Nova will virtually clinch a crack at Joe Louis for Max Baer who doesn't want the championship as much as his share of the gate.

Joe Chamaco clinches National three-cushion billiards championship. Chicago Cub physician orders complete rest for Shortstop Dick Bartell and his lame ankle without indicating when the ex-Giant can get back into uniform.

Julian Black announces that unless the well-known George Blake is named as referee, he'll not permit Joe Louis to defend his heavyweight title against Jack Roper in Los Angeles, April 17.

Buddy Baer, brother of Max Baer, knocked out Big Boy Brackley, Los Angeles heavyweight, in second round in the California City.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Local sport hodgepodge—Lawrence County streams have been heavily stocked with bass and trout according to C. B. "Rosey" White, former Lawrence County league sandlot ball player and now a fish warden. . . . Local ping-pong dopesters say that "Buster" Pagley will be the city's No. 1 player within a few months. The lanky south sider has been bowling over such "p.p." players as Paul Eagan, "Fuzzy" Raffel, George Chip, Jr., "Sparky" Morelli, only to mention a few. . . . "Austie" Cowmeadow, Mahoning Junior high school's athletic coach, is a member of the City League Umpires Association. . . . Without a doubt, there isn't a person in the sports world who loves boxing more than Jimmy Dime. Despite the fact that he is nearing his 75th birthday, Dime seldom misses a visit to a downtown gymnasium where he teaches the art of manly defense. "Mickie" Rubin is one of his pet proteges. . . .

Sports hamburger—Brooklyn sent a scout to scout the Phillies. Only the Dodgers could do a thing like this. . . . About 500,000 youngsters will play on various American Legion Junior teams this season. . . . One of the most popular games in Finland is "pesapallo." This pastime is the Finnish's version of baseball. . . . Charley Keller, Yankee rookie, has lost 18 pounds since tying up with the Manhattan Bombers. Has the pace been a bit too fast for the Newark star? When interviewed, a day or so ago, Mrs. Lou Gehrig says her "hubby" is far from thru. "Watch and see," was the way she put it. . . .

Note: This is the twelfth of a series of articles dealing with major league baseball teams. Chicago White Sox—There isn't a pilot in the major leagues who is confronted with quite as big a problem as that which faces old Jimmy Dykes. The former Athletic star, now 42, is staying an uphill fight to haul the Windy City aggregation out of sixth place. What does Dykes have? Nothing but—troubles! Putting the club under a microscope, the first big spot is Monty Stratton, No. 1 pitcher who suffered the loss of his right leg in an unfortunate hunting mishap. Stratton is done, depriving Dykes of one of the classiest twirlers in the business. Jack Hayes, a second sacker, has knee trouble. Marvin Owen, third baseman, is slowing up. Perhaps Father Time is catching up with him. The backstop department is composed of yearlings—George Renska, Norman J. Schluter, Kenny Sylvestri and Michael Tresh. None of the youngsters has shown major league ability as yet. Let's not overlook Luke Appling. Appling, a cracker jack at short, busted an ankle and has shown effects of the injury since. . . .

Further down the line, one sees Teddy Lyons, a great pitcher. But he's 39 and Father Time is ready to tap him on the shoulder. John Whitehead, another moundsman, is as uncertain as the weather. He usually starts off like a champ, takes on a few pounds and has a habit of getting tired or perhaps lazy. He can be listed as a 500 pitcher. "Lefty" Lee looms as the ace of the club. Art Hering and Vic Praster, who literally burned up the American Association pitching records in 1938, have been imported in the hope of bolstering the chucking division. Dykes also has Clint Brown and Bill Dietrich, a couple of gentlemen who are always welcomed to the knoll as far as DiMaggio, Greenberg, Trosky, etc., are concerned. That sums up Dykes' pitching staff which comes under one category—weak. . . .

In mentioning the outfield, Dykes is able to smile a wee-bit. Henry Steinbacher, Ray Radcliff, Mike Kreevich, Gerald Walker and John Rosenthal are capable men and rank with the standard American League outfield. Walker, former Tigerite, is still a wicked man at the plate. Last season, he ended up with a .305 average. Joe Kuhel and Merwin Connors, a rookie, are engaged in the first base fight, with Kuhel a favorite to win out. Aloystius Belma, a star with St. Paul last season, figures to help out in the infield. He was one of the outstanding players in the AA loop. With a roster loaded with pains and injuries, the White Sox loom as a weak sister in the tough American League. It's an heroic effort on the part of Dykes, but somewhat hopeless, unless something unforeseen happens soon. It is unfortunate a gent like Dykes, regarded as one of the best hustlers in the big show, is surrounded by a hospital list. . . .

McCreary Elected To Head Archers

A meeting of the New Castle Archery Club was held last night at the Sanfilippo home on Walnut street and an election of officers held with Edward McCreary being elected as president for 1939. The vice-presidency job will fall to Joe Sanfilippo. Sam Sanfilippo will serve as secretary and Harry Young as treasurer. Field Captain will be Tom Sanfilippo. If the weather permits a shoot will be held about a mile from the city limits on the East Brook road. Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. For membership in the club any one interested can call Sam Sanfilippo at 2246-M, or call at his home.

Baer And Nova Fight June 1 (International News Service) NEW YORK, April 5.—Promoter Mike Jacobs Tuesday announced that the 15-round bout between Lou Nova and Max Baer, heavyweights, originally carded for a May date, will be held on June 1.

With the advance of the bout from May to June, Jacobs has decided to stage it in Yankee Stadium. Top price will be $11.50.

SOUTH HILLS TO HAVE FAST TEAM There was a turnout of 22 young men at the meeting of the South Hills baseball team on Monday night, and from all indications the South Hills team this year will be one of the best in the county.

There will be a practice session, the first of the year, at 5:30 o'clock next Tuesday at the South Hills field. South Hills will no doubt be back in the Lawrence County league this year, but would like to join the City league, it is understood.

SLOVAKS MEET TONIGHT The Slovak club will have a meeting tonight at the clubrooms for the formation of a baseball team for the City league this summer. The meeting, starting at 7:30 o'clock, will be conducted by Johnny Seinker, the veteran. Steve Russell is slated to manage the Slovaks, it is understood.

Telephone Big Aid In Equality Drive By Women

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, April 5.—"The invention of the telephone was one of the principle events in aiding women to gain equality with men," according to Dr. Bingham Duncan of the Westminster college history department.

"Men were first hired as telephone operators. But business men, using the new contraption, would get a wrong number once too many times, and begin swearing angrily into the mouthpiece. Inevitably, the operator would swear back, and friction was started. Women as operators were the only solution."

Stock Market Shows Support

Irregular Trend Is Seen In Opening Of Market This Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 5.—The stock market moved irregularly today but showed support after yesterday's break into new low ground for the year.

The market opened mixed and mostly lower in active dealings. Leaders then moved ahead for a brief period with many showing gains on the day. The margin selling checked the recovery but once this was out of the way firming tendencies developed again.

DuPont was down over a point. Sears Roebuck lost a point but cut this later.

U. S. Steel slipped under the 50-level for a slight loss. Bethlehem fluctuated in the range of around a point.

Chrysler was easier while General Motors was firm. Low-prices utility shares tended to improve but Consolidated Edison was under some pressure.

Railroad shares showed a steady tone. Standard of New Jersey was a firm spot in oils, and Goodyear was up in rubbers. Aviation shares moved ahead, stimulated by the army's action to speed plane orders under the new national defense bill. Food shares were higher.

Would Abolish Lady Bartenders

Pennsylvania Assemblymen Introduce Bill To Take Women Out of Saloons

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 5.—There'll be no such expressions as "Madam, give me a beer," if a bill introduced in the house of representatives by Assemblyman Elmer J. Holland, D., and Joseph R. Dick, R., Allegheny, is adopted.

"Madam bartenders" would be prohibited in Pennsylvania under the act.
The measure provides for a fine of $100 and imprisonment of three months for every person "who uses the services of a female in mixing alcoholic beverages containing distilled spirits on any premises used for the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises."
The same penalty holds for any woman rendering such a service.

Best Exercise Is 'Good Walk'

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, April 5.—
"A brisk walk in the open air is worth twenty workouts in a gymnasium," according to Dr. Donald Matthews, professor of biology at Westminster college.
Speaking before physiology students, Dr. Matthews pointed out that the old fashioned conception of robust health which consisted of getting up at 6 o'clock in the morning and faithfully performing the "daily dozen" was false, and probably did more to break down the body than build it up.

A good walk, Dr. Matthews believes, is the best of all exercises, for both young and old, male and female.

Newspaper men have clever little tricks, too. When one desires more mail, he writes a piece about a dog.
